(Weekly) Instructional Guide for Distance Education

Following a weekly schedule will help guide your learning activities while you are at home.

- Real-Time Lesson: This is when the material will be taught and discussed virtually and students are required to attend via Google and attendance will be taken.
- Group Work: This time is used to allow students to work with one another virtually or to provide additional support to individual students. If a student is invited to a group via Google, attendance is expected.
- 120 minutes of live teaching will occur throughout the week for each class period. This may include whole group and/or small group instruction. Teachers will provide a weekly instructional guide outlining live teaching times for each week.
- Independent Work: Dedicated time to work on assignments to ensure students keep up with the required course load of work.
- Virtual Office Hours: Teachers will be available to answer student questions. Information from each teacher on how to directly contact them will be provided.
- Wellness Checks: Staff will reach out to their assigned students to check on students' emotional and academic status to ensure additional support can be provided if needed.
